DEMOCRATS OF SOUTH AND REPUBLICANS IN ANTI-SMITH FUSION

New Alignment Of Par- ties To Seek State Offices

ROANOKE, Va., June 19.—The strangest political alignment since the reconstruction days presented itself to the interested view of the state today, as erstwhile solid south Democrats and a receptive Republican party apparently had effected a fusion with the immediate objective of fighting the influence of Alfred E. Smith, John J. Raskob and supplying the present state Democratic organization.

More ambitious plans for spreading the anti-Smith doctrine throughout the south also were formulated. Installation of a headquarters in Washington for carrying on the work was approved by the convention.

The more than 1,000 ardent anti-Smith Democrats assembled at the instigation of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., and a committee of eighteen, closed their one-day rump convention last night after accomplishing a surprising number of things.

These accomplishments are listed in part as follows:

1. Nomination of a partial slate, headed by Dr. William Mosley Brown, of Washington and Lee University, as the coalition choice to oppose regular state Democratic candidates in the election next fall.
2. Adoption of resolutions demanding the resignation of Raskob as chairman of the Democratic national committee; the pledging of support to President Hoover in his law enforcement program, and a blanket indictment of the present state administration.
3. Inclusion in the resolution, which serves as a platform for the newly-formed party, of a plank in directly referring to the recent White House entertainment of a negro woman at tea by declaring for racial integrity and condemning social contact between whites and negroes.
4. Resignation of I. C. Trotman, of Suffolk, a member of the executive committee of the anti-Smith party, in protest against the ignoring of his demands that the convention denounce in unmistakable terms the action of Mrs. Hoover in entertaining Mrs. Oscar De Priest, wife of a negro representative.
5. Adoption of a resolution calling for the establishment in Washington of a national anti-Smith organization, with the avowed purpose of encouraging "solid south" states which went Republican in the last election to follow the example of this convention.

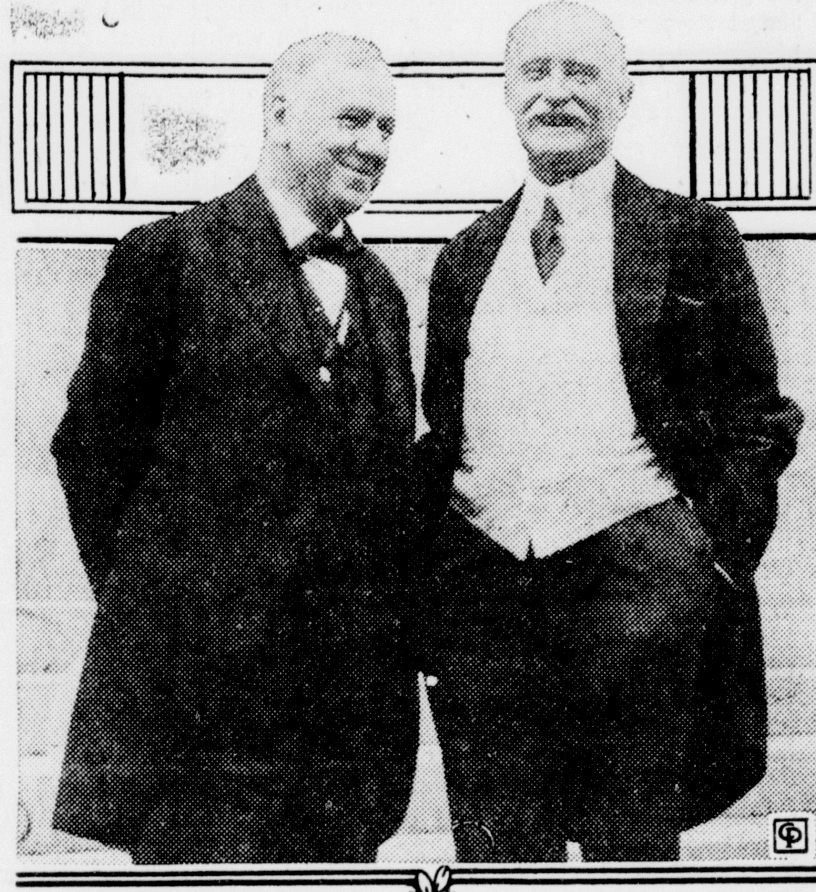

Sues for Courage

One of the oddest damage suits on record, in Los Angeles courts, has been instituted by Loretta Rush, girl diver, who is suing Glen E. Lockridge for "loss of courage." She asserts that after an auto accident for which she blames him she no longer could summon up courage to do difficult dives. She is at left, and her sister, Edna, also a diver, at right, in court.

PIONEERS TALK OVER PROHIBITION

Sir Esme Howard, right, who announced he would sign no more liquor permits for the members of his legation, and Joseph Daniels, secretary of the navy in Wilson's administration, who made the navy dry, are seen above talking it over at Chapel Hill, N. C., where Sir Esme delivered the commencement address at the University of North Carolina.

PROSECUTOR PROMISES TO STOP GAMBLING AT WEST JEFFERSON

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—He had received no complaints this year. The West Jefferson controversy came to a head recently when H. M. Foster, general manager of the track, was arrested on charges of operating a gambling device. A jury that tried his case disagreed. Three other men under similar charges at the time were released by Richmond, who announced that he was through, since it was impossible to obtain convictions.

Richmond would not divulge the method by which he hopes to halt the gambling but said that all would be known at a picnic meeting of the Farmers Club at Sub Armstrong's place four miles south of London tomorrow noon.

The attorney general is also seeking to have R. H. Bostwick, Geauga County prosecutor, confer with him here on the question of gambling on horse races at Bainbridge.

Bettman was instructed by Gov. Cooper to investigate dog races at West Jefferson and horse races at Bainbridge "and adopt such means as are legal and proper to end gambling there."

The governor said that the "continuance of gambling at the dog track at West Jefferson and in the horse racing at Bainbridge gives me, as governor, great concern."

The governor's action was the latest step in the fight waged by the state against operation of tracks under the "contribution" system which the governor maintains involves gambling.

STATE-DISTILLED LIQUOR MUST WAIT LEGAL PROCESSES

Amendment Would De- lay Wet Utopia Five Years.

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—Those who have dreamed with State Senator Barnard Gettleman of a wet utopia in Wisconsin will have to wait at least five years to see that dream fulfilled, legislative experts here declared today.

Even if favorable action is taken by the present legislature—and that appears improbable—it will be at least 1934 before the state constitution can be amended and a court battle won in the Milwaukee solon's plan to put the state in the liquor business, even Gettleman admitted.

Gettleman yesterday introduced a proposed constitutional amendment to permit the commonwealth to manufacture, transport and sell intoxicating liquors. His proposal was based on the theory of J. Gilbert Hardgrove, former president of the Milwaukee Bar association, that the 18th amendment does not curb the right of states to traffic in liquor.

Wet leaders could count on securing only an even dozen votes for the proposition. The remainder of the thirty-three senators had indicated they would vote "no," regardless of previous alignment on the repeal of Wisconsin's state dry laws, recently approved in a state wide referendum.

Gettleman urged state-operated distilleries and breweries with a "delivery-to-your-door" system under state supervision. All beverages thus sold would have to be consumed away from the premises where they were dispensed.

INSURANCE AGENT'S LICENSE REVOKED

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—C. S. Younger, state superintendent of insurance, today revoked the license of L. F. Terman, Mansfield insurance agent, on the ground that Terman was guilty of unethical practices.

Younger said a hearing was held "some days ago based on a complaint of the unsuitability of Mr. Terman to be licensed insurance agent."

"Mr. Terman," he said, "was charged with unethical practices, specifically charging him with making disparaging statements against competitor companies."

Younger said Terman had been warned previously. He said the hearing developed that Terman had been sending out anonymous letters and statements against competitor companies.

His license was revoked, effective today.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Calvin Coolidge lays down a group of guiding principles for men who are at the head of great organizations, in an article to be published tomorrow in the American Magazine.

They include:

Hoover Signs $500,000,000 Farm Bill

In an effort to solve the surplus crop situation through a series of stabilization corporations, Senator Chas. S. McNary of Oregon and Representative Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa have fought for years for the passage of a farm relief measure and have at last succeeded in getting Hoover's signature to the bill which embodies authorization for an appropriation of $500,000,000.

EDISON REFUSES TO SELL BIRTH PLACE; WISHES RESPECTED

State Denied Plan Of Making Shrine At Milan, Ohio

MILAN, O., June 19.—Thomas A. Edison refused to sell his birthplace here to the state of Ohio for a perpetual monument to memorialize the famous inventor.

The committee of five senators and five representatives, headed by state Senator George H. Bender, received the refusal from William H. Meadowcroft, Edison's personal assistant for forty-eight years.

Meadowcroft met here with the commission and explained that Edison wished to keep the property in the family.

Sentimental about very few things, Edison finds himself unable to release the place where he was born, Feb. 11, 1847, and where he lived the first seven years of his life, even to the state of Ohio, Meadowcroft explained.

"The little one-story brick house has a tug at his heartstrings that forbids his giving up ownership," he said.

Meadowcroft conveyed to the commission Edison's appreciation at the honor, and a statement of his pride in Ohio and Milan.

The aged wizard is just returning to his Orange, N. J., laboratories from Fort Myers, Fla., where he spent five months. He is sleeping six and one-half hours a day now instead of the four hours of his rigid schedule during the prime of his life. Mrs. Edison sees to this and that he gets his meals regularly despite the experimenting, Meadowcroft said.

Harvey S. Firestone, Akron rubber millionaire and intimate friend of Edison, attended the meeting and suggested the state respect Edison's wishes about retaining actual ownership of the place, but make some provision for taking over its management and make it a perpetual shrine to science.

The house is occupied by Miss Marietta Wadsworth, second cousin of the inventor. It is one of the show places of the state and thousands of visitors come to it yearly.

The committee will report its finding to Gov. Myers V. Cooper within the ninety days set by the legislature in sending them to inquire into taking the site over.

The proposed purchase was in connection with the celebration this year of the invention by Edison of the incandescent electric light bulb, fifty years ago this October 21.

LINDBERGH RETURNS TO WORK; HONEYMOON COMES TO AN END

NEW YORK, June 19.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh went back to work today, at the end of his honeymoon with the former Anne Spencer Morrow.

Lindbergh was scheduled to appear at Mitchell Field as one of the judges in the international safe aircraft competition arranged by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics.

Lindbergh is a trustee and aeronautical consultant of the Guggenheim fund.

The Lindbergh honeymoon yacht Mouette anchored yesterday in the cove at Sands Point, L. I., and Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh went ashore to the estate of Daniel Guggenheim, where they remained during the forenoon and for luncheon.

There was no intimation where they would make their home.

MERCHANDISE EXPORTED FROM OHIO INCREASE S REPORT SHOWS

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The state of Ohio exported merchandise valued at $196,518,383 during 1928, the United States department of commerce announced today.

This was an increase of $10,426,843 over 1927.

Rubber tires ranked first in order of value among the commodities, these being valued at more than $20,000,000, but decrease of $5,000,000 over the previous year.

Other leading exports were automobiles, iron and steel plates, skelp and strips, motor trucks and busses, crude oil, automobile accessories, machinery and agricultural products.

Ohio ranked ninth in the value of products exported.

West Virginia ranked twenty-fourth with $43,260,772 as compared to $53,215,791 in 1927 and Kentucky ranked thirty-second with $22,097,480 as compared to $24,228,798 in 1927.

Total American exports were valued at $3,043,973,142 as compared to $4,758,721,078 in 1927.

Chester considered as important her admission that she did not actually see her husband until about 11:30 p. m. the night of the murder.

This is contradictory to the statement made by Dr. Snook to investigators and repeated to newspapermen last night after his wife had been questioned.

Dr. Snook said that he returned home at about 9:30 p. m. and Mrs. Snook said that she heard a door slam while she was upstairs at that time.

She heard the rattling of clothes hangers, she said, leading her to believe her husband was home, though she did not see him.

She went to sleep she said, and did not awaken until about 11:30 when a heavy rain began to fall.

Then, she said, she arose, went down stairs and saw her husband eating a lunch.

Dr. Snook told newspapermen that he went to bed before 10:30 or 11 p. m. again in contradiction to his wife's story.

BLAME SHAFT BREAK FOR AIR DISASTER

LONDON, June 19.—The first explanation of the mystifying disaster to the airplane City of Ottawa, which crashed in the English Channel yesterday with a loss of seven lives, was advanced today by the Daily Star.

The Star said that the difficulty through the breaking of an engine shaft, which smashed two holes in the bottom of the plane. The plane also turned over when it hit the water, the Star said, submerging the emergency exit in the roof, partially accounting for the deaths.

At least two of the dead in the disaster had never flown before, they were Jamie Bassoff, whose body is missing, and Adolphus Meister, 91, Gardfield. The latter was going to his native town, Zurich, Switzerland for the first time in fifty years, Miss Bassoff was a vaudeville actress.

PROSECUTOR FAILS TO SHAKE SUSPECT; WIFE BREAKS DOWN

Mrs. Snook Unable To Account For Part Of Thursday.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Another surprise midnight conference arranged by Prosecutor John Chester failed last night when Dr. James H. Snook, held in the slaying of Theora Hix, Ohio State University co-ed, withstood a third grilling without weakening.

Little more information than has already been obtained came out of the questioning, and Dr. Snook, former professor of veterinary medicine at the university, retained the professional calm that has characterized him throughout his detention.

Chester is expected to wind up the inquiry with another grilling of Dr. Snook, who had not been questioned since Sunday, two days after the girl's body was found on the New York Central rifle range.

Examination of scores of persons who have knowledge of the case has taken up infinitely more time than Chester expected, and as a result his decision on the question of filing a murder charge has been delayed, he said.

Meanwhile, William B. Bartels, assistant district attorney, and C. H. Ford, federal narcotic inspector, were pushing their investigation into the report that traffic in narcotics is involved in the case.

Dr. Snook and his wife told their stories late yesterday, the former professor to newspapermen and Mrs. Snook to the board of three conducting the inquiry, composed of Chester, Police Chief Henry French and Chief of Detectives W. G. Shellenbarger.

Mrs. Snook broke down completely and cried after she answered scores of questions hurled at her for more than four hours by the prosecutors.

Chester considered as important her admission that she did not actually see her husband until about 11:30 p. m. the night of the murder.

This is contradictory to the statement made by Dr. Snook to investigators and repeated to newspapermen last night after his wife had been questioned.

Dr. Snook said that he returned home at about 9:30 p. m. and Mrs. Snook said that she heard a door slam while she was upstairs at that time.

3. Inclusion in the resolution, which serves as a platform for the newly-formed party, of a plank indirectly referring to the recent White House entertainment of a negro woman at tea by declaring for racial integrity and condemning social contact between whites and negroes.

4. Resignation of I. C. PROSECUTOR PROMISES TO STOP GAMBLING AT WEST JEFFERSON

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Gambling on the dog races at West Jefferson will cease within thirty-six hours, or sometime tomorrow, according to Attorney General Gilbert Bettman who said Prosecutor Dean Richmond of Madison County had given him that assurance.

Bettman's statement followed a conference with Richmond late Tuesday. The attorney general said he did not believe the state should interfere with county government and that the projected stand against gambling was coming from the prosecutor.

Richmond would not divulge the method by which he hopes to halt the gambling but said that all would be known at a picnic meeting of the Farmers Club at Bob Armstrong's place four miles south of London tomorrow noon.

The attorney general is also asking to have R. H. Bostwick, Geauga County prosecutor, confer with him here on the question of gambling on horse races at Bainbridge.

The governor's action was the latest step in the fight waged by the state against operation of tracks under the "contribution" system which the governor maintains involves gambling.

The governor recently addressed a letter to Richard Bostwick, Geauga County prosecutor, directing attention to the fact that complaints had been made against operation of the Bainbridge track, which is located just inside the Geauga County line and draws most of its patronage from Cleveland. Bostwick replied that he had threshed the matter out last fall before the grand jury, and no indictments were returned and that

Thousands of relatives of graduates, patrons of the school and other friends are already present. Wilberforce citizens have opened their homes to the visitors and many students vacated their rooms in the dormitories to accommodate the visitors with sleeping quarters.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES HEARS REPORTS AT STARTING SESSION

The greater part of the opening all-day session Tuesday of the annual three-day meeting of the board of trustees of Wilberforce University was devoted to the hearing of yearly reports of Gilbert H. Jones, president, and George Valentine, secretary, treasurer, disclosing that during the fiscal school year of 1928-29, total money collected amounted to $127,151.13 and expenditures aggregated $105,731.85.

The Shorter Hall dining room took in $35,609.03 and expended $28,825.60, showing that it was operated at a slight profit.

The trustees considered business affairs of the university and made recommendations for conferring of degrees upon graduates at commencement exercises Thursday.

The presiding officer of the board is the Rt. Rev. W. H. Heard, Philadelphia, Pa., who was assigned by the last General Conference of the A. M. E. Church in May, 1928, to preside over the Fourth Episcopal District.

Bishop Heard, in opening the meeting Tuesday, gave an inspiring address and requested the trustees to give careful consideration to financial affairs of the school, particularly with regard to raising funds to liquidate debts which have accumulated over a period of the last four years, attributed to the high cost of living.

He also paid a high compliment to the outgoing presiding officer, Bishop J. H. Jones, who rebuilt Shorter Hall after the old building was destroyed by fire several years ago.

Mrs. Snook Unable To Account For Part Of Thursday.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Another surprise midnight conference arranged by Prosecutor John Chester failed last night when Dr. James H. Snook, held in the slaying of Theora Hix, Ohio State University co-ed, withstood a third grilling without weakening.

Little more information than has already been obtained came out of the questioning, and Dr. Snook, former professor of veterinary medicine at the university, retained the professional calm that has characterized him throughout his detention.

Chester is expected to wind up the inquiry with another grilling of Dr. Snook, who had not been questioned since Sunday, two days after the girl's body was found on the New York Central rifle range.

Examination of scores of persons who have knowledge of the case has taken up infinitely more time than Chester expected, and as a result his decision on the question of filing a murder charge has been delayed, he said.

Meanwhile, William B. Bartels, assistant district attorney, and C. H. Ford, federal narcotic inspector, were pushing their investigation into the report that traffic in narcotics is involved in the case.

Dr. Snook and his wife told their stories late yesterday, the former professor to newspapermen and Mrs. Snook to the board of three conducting the inquiry, composed of Chester, Police Chief Henry French and Chief of Detectives W. G. Shellenbarger.

Mrs. Snook broke down completely and cried after she answered scores of questions hurled at her for more than four hours by the probes.

Chester considered as important her admission that she did not actually see her husband until about 11:30 p. m. the night of the murder.

This is contradictory to the statement made by Dr. Snook to investigators and repeated to newspapermen last night after she had been questioned.

Dr. Snook said that he returned home at about 9:30 p. m. and Mrs. Snook said that she heard a door slam while she was upstairs at that time.

She heard the rattling of clothes hangers, she said, leading her to believe her husband was home, though she did not see him.

She went to sleep the said, and did not awaken until about 11:30 when a heavy rain began to fall.

Then, she said, she arose, went down stairs and saw her husband eating a lunch.

Dr. Snook told newspapermen that he went to bed before 10:30 or 11 p. m. again in contradiction to his wife's story.

BLAME SHAFT BREAK FOR AIR DISASTER

LONDON, June 19.—The first explanation of the mystifying disaster to the airplane City of Ottawa, which crashed in the English Channel yesterday with a loss of seven lives, was advanced today by the Daily Star.

The Star said it understood the plane encountered difficulty through the breaking of an engine shaft, which smashed two holes in the bottom of the plane. The plane also turned over when it hit the water, the Star said, submerging the emergency exit in the roof, partially accounting for the deaths.

At least two of the dead in the disaster had never flown before, they were Janie Bassoff, whose body is missing, and Adolpha Meister, 91, Garfield. The latter was going to his native town, Zurich, Switzerland for the first time in fifty years. Miss Bassoff was a vaudeville actress.

WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA

To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," this simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists.

Prepare a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglassful. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit.

Its anti-acid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild, but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during expectancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years. "Milk of Magnesia" has been U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

Acting in behalf of the alumni, Mrs. Frank Dean delivered the address of welcome to the incoming class and Mr. Robert Adair, president of the senior class, responded for the honor guests.

Following the two-course dinner, which was served by Mrs. Pearl Wolf, a musical program was furnished in the school auditorium by an orchestra composed of Mrs. Louis Hammerle, violin, Miss Lois Street, cello, Mr. Leitch Little, clarinet, and Miss Marjorie Street, piano. Miss Zella Soward sang several selections.

After the musical program, the guests witnessed a playlet, entitled "The Cast Rehearses," presented under the direction of Miss Helen Hurley, who also took part. Others who participated in the play were Mrs. Howell Huston and the Misses Faye Cavanaugh, Margaret Neeld and Marguerite Zeiner.

Afterward dancing was enjoyed in the school gymnasium until a late hour with music furnished by "Jew" Harrington and his Campus Revelers, a ten-piece band from Wilberforce University. Cards were available for those who did not care to dance.

followed by the bride's maids, twin sisters of the bride, Misses Genevieve and Genevieve Jamieson, Little Margaret Anderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leo Anderson and Dorcas Ann Jobe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Jobe, followed as flower-girls, dropping flowers in the path of the bride who came immediately after them. She was very beautiful and attractive in her frock of white satin crepe with a bridal veil of real lace fastened with real orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful bride's arm show. Little Walter Turnbull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Turnbull, acted as ring bearer.

The bride was met at the altar by the ministers, the bridegroom and his best man, the Rev. Henry Leitman, assistant pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant at Cincinnati and class mate of the bride and bridegroom at Monmouth College.

At the close of the ceremony, Miss Oglesbee sang "O Perfect Love." The ushers were Messrs. Robert Turnbull, James Stormont, Lloyd McCampbell and Harvey Auld.

RUDY VALLEE FINDS SAX APPEAL NO AID TOWARD SEX APPEAL

By AL SHERMAN
Central Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, June 17.—Suppose you were only twenty-six and earning $3,500 a week? And let's further suppose that you had the kind of a voice that has set probably millions of feminine hearts to palpitating over the radio and from the stage? How would you feel about it?

Well, Rudy Vallee feels that it's all a lot of the well-known hokey. To this self-contained and personable youngster, the fact that he earns as much in one week as his father used to get out of a year's labor running a drug store in West Brook, Me., isn't so very important.

Really? But it does seem important to Rudy that his personal contacts with the feminine sex have been decidedly unsatisfactory—for him, he intimates.

For the man with the sex-appeal voice (again he intimates) finds he's only sax-appeal when the damsel meets him face to face. And yet another thing! The blonde youngster would like nothing better, he says, than to be able to play a tragic role on the stage.

"I have no illusions about my success, if you want to call it that, or my voice, too," says Rudy Vallee, backstage. "I often have been asked to define my voice—to analyze it and tell just what's in it that makes it so appealing. What's the sense of doing that? Later, when I feel as though I could really go into detail about my voice, and there is a demand for a personal account about myself, I'll try to analyze it. But now? All I could say about it is this:

Rudy Tells About It
"My voice isn't musical in the exact sense of the word. Its pitch is correct, its range is limited. When I first told the boys in my band that I was going to sing, they thought I was crazy. Well, maybe I am, but it's been a profitable lunacy.

"I've tried to pick out songs that tell a story—songs that are sentimental, bring up memories and have a universal appeal. And that's one of the reasons, I think, why my voice goes over. The other is diction. I've tried to sing clearly, pronounce each word distinctly, and make all my songs understandable. "The sympathetic quality that they find in my voice comes from my mother. When we're in conversation together, you'll find that my mother has a voice best described as soothing. Perhaps I've inherited that quality. I hope I have, because that soothing voice helped assuage the pain of many a licking in my kid days."

A Leading Question
"How do the girls appeal to you?" Vallee was asked.
"Appeal to me? I like them a lot," replied Rudy, with enthusiasm. "I like all girls, but girls don't like me!"

"Yes, that's true," said Vallee. "I can make most any kind of a hit with the girls when I sing, but when I meet them personally, somehow I don't appeal to them. I don't know why. I'm not bashful at all. Of course, I could sing to them and make them fall in love with me, but who the dickens wants to sing while he's trying to coo a girl that he really and truly loves her?"

Ah, Now!
"You know, I'd like to have some girl really find me attractive, not because of my voice, but because of myself. It would be an unusual feeling, to say the least!"

"I think one of the reasons why I don't get along so well with girls," continued this analytical youth, "is that I'm too independent. I have no valet, I shave myself, I like cafeterias, and I hate to have anyone tell me what or what not to do. And whoever heard of a girl that didn't try, at some time or other, to influence a fellow to do something he isn't keen on doing?"

RUDY VALLEE FINDS SAX APPEAL NO AID TOWARD SEX APPEAL

By AL SHERMAN
Central Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, June 17.—Suppose you were only twenty-six and earning $3,500 a week? And let's further suppose that you had the kind of a voice that has set probably millions of feminine hearts to palpitating over the radio and from the stage? How would you feel about it?

Well, Rudy Vallee feels that it's all a lot of the well-known hokey. To this self-contained and personable youngster, the fact that he earns as much in one week as his father used to get out of a year's labor running a drug store in West Brook, Me., isn't so very important.

Really? But it does seem important to Rudy that his personal contacts with the feminine sex have been decidedly unsatisfactory—for him, he intimates.

For the man with the sex-appeal voice (again he intimates) finds he's only sax-appeal when the damsel meets him face to face. And yet another thing! The blonde youngster would like nothing better, he says, than to be able to play a tragic role on the stage.

"I have no illusions about my success, if you want to call it that, or my voice, too," says Rudy Vallee, backstage. "I often have been asked to define my voice—to analyze it and tell just what's in it that makes it so appealing. What's the sense of doing that? Later, when I feel as though I could really go into detail about my voice, and there is a demand for a personal account about myself, I'll try to analyze it. But now? All I could say about it is this:

Rudy Tells About It
"My voice isn't musical in the exact sense of the word. Its pitch is correct, its range is limited. When I first told the boys in my band that I was going to sing, they thought I was crazy. Well, maybe I am, but it's been a profitable lunacy.

"I've tried to pick out songs that tell a story—songs that are sentimental, bring up memories and have a universal appeal. And that's one of the reasons, I think, why my voice goes over. The other is diction. I've tried to sing clearly, pronounce each word distinctly, and make all my songs understandable. "The sympathetic quality that they find in my voice comes from my mother. When we're in conversation together, you'll find that my mother has a voice best described as soothing. Perhaps I've inherited that quality. I hope I have, because that soothing voice helped assuage

A Leading Question
"How do the girls appeal to you?" Vallee was asked.
"Appeal to me? I like them a lot," replied Rudy, with enthusiasm. "I like all girls, but girls don't like me!"

"Yes, that's true," said Vallee. "I can make most any kind of a hit with the girls when I sing, but when I meet them personally, somehow I don't appeal to them. I don't know why. I'm not bashful at all. Of course, I could sing to them and make them fall in love with me, but who the dickens wants to sing while he's trying to

Ah, Now!
"You know, I'd like to have some girl really find me attractive, not because of my voice, but because of myself. It would be an unusual feeling, to say the least!"

"I think one of the reasons why I don't get along so well with girls," continued this analytical youth, "is that I'm too independent. I have no valet, I shave myself, I like cafeterias, and I hate to have anyone tell me what or what not to do. And whoever heard of a girl that didn't try, at some time or other, to influence a fellow to do something he isn't keen on doing?"

After which philosophic outburst, the blonde band leader hesitated for a moment.

"There's another thing I'd like to talk about," said Vallee. "Everyone has been under the impression that I'm earning thousands and thousands of dollars. I'm not. I'm earning thirty-five hundred dollars a week, and Edwin Scheuing, director of a broadcasting company, is my manager and financial advisor. He invests all my money for me."

Attorney Named Head Of Central Alumni

ATTORNEY Harry D. Smith is the new president of the Xenia Central High School Alumni Association, elected at the seventh annual alumni banquet held in the school cafeteria Tuesday evening.

Attorney Smith succeeds Mrs. C. O. Nybladh. Other new officers selected are: Miss Allegra E. Hawes, vice president; Miss Margaret Neeld, secretary and Mr. Isadore M. Hyman, treasurer.

More than 125 persons registered for the dinner and dance.

Not more than twenty-five members of the 1929 graduating class of the high school were present to be received into the alumni organization at the reception.

All guests were required to register upon entering the building and it is estimated that less than eight classes covering a period of many years did not have representatives present at the affair.

Mr. Fred Flynn, vice-president of the association, acted as chairman at the banquet in the absence of the president, Mrs. Nybladh, and presided at a short informal program that followed the dinner in the cafeteria.

SMITH-BRACKNEY NUPTIALS PERFORMED

Miss Hazel Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith, Bowersville, and Mr. Lauren P. Brackney, Wilmington, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents on the Port William Road, at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. C. A. Arthur officiated, using the single ring ceremony.

The couple was unattended and the ceremony was witnessed only by members of the respective families. A frock of tan crepe, with accessories of tan to match, was chosen by the bride for her marriage. Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Brackney left for a short honeymoon trip and will be at home to their friends in Wilmington where the bridegroom is employed in a bank in that city.

Sister Louisa Angela of the Sisters of Charity, faculty of St. Elizabeth School, is at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati where she submitted to an operation performed by Dr. Joseph L. DeCourcy, Cincinnati surgeon.

WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA

To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," this simple measure is proving a blessing. Most nurses know it and it is advised by leading specialists.

Prepare a small quantity of finely cracked ice—about a wineglassful. Pour over it a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until the mixture is gone or you are entirely relieved. It is seldom necessary to repeat the dose to end sick stomach or any inclination to vomit.

Its anti-acid properties enable Phillips Milk of Magnesia to give immediate relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas, its mild, but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouthwash it helps prevent acid erosion and tooth decay during pregnancy.

With every bottle of Phillips Milk of Magnesia, come full directions for its many uses. All drug stores have the 25c and 50c sizes. Demand the genuine, endorsed by doctors for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875. —Adv.

Mr. A. G. Collins, Cedarville, who has been ill for some time, remains the same.

Green County Pomona Grange will confer the fifth degree at the Xenia Grange, Friday evening, June 21, at 8 o'clock. A large class is to be initiated. The women are to bring cakes.

Miss Dorothy Collins, Brooklyn, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Collins Cedarville, is spending ten days with her parents. She is employed in the Religious Education Department of the Brooklyn Federation of Churches, at Brooklyn, N. Y.

Bernard, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schweibold, High St., is ill with the whooping cough.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.—The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up. For that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. —Matthew 4:16, 17.

FREAKISH NOTIONS

Always they have had queer ideas and have done queer things in Wisconsin. So it is not especially surprising that after federal officers confiscated seven barrels of beer with which the "boys" were preparing to celebrate the seventy-fifth G. O. P. birthday party, held at Ripon, Assemblyman L. A. Lamoreaux drew up the resolution from which we here quote, in order to present it to the state legislature:

"Be it resolved that the federal government be requested to desist from enforcing the Eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution in Wisconsin hereafter, in consideration of the wishes of the people expressed at the polls on April 3, and the almost unbroken line of support given by the state of Wisconsin to the Republican party."

It might be worth while as a pastime to listen to an exposition by Assemblyman Lamoreaux of his ideas about the relationship existing between the federal government and the states. Apparently the gentleman feels that whenever any part of the national constitution or any national statute is disagreeable to the people of a state, all they need to do is to say so, in order to be exempted from its operation. And we suppose he believes as a corollary that where Washington proves unaccommodating, the next thing in order for the state is to secede.

However, Mr. Lamoreaux plainly hopes it will be unnecessary to proceed to extremes and establish an independent capital at Madison where beer will flow like milk and honey. He conveys a more than delicate hint that it is up to the president and other Republican party leaders to forget the obnoxious article in the constitution and fix the thing as a repayment for political benefits conferred by Wisconsin on the G. O. P. The assemblyman is a naive soul; and not the least interesting of his mental processes is the one by which he arrives at the remarkable conclusion that Wisconsin has been something beside a disloyalist and troublemaker in the Republican camp.

It isn't the prevalence of cars on the streets and highways that makes the trouble; it's the lack of prevalence of sense behind the wheels that causes the difficulty.

People had fewer "advantages" fifty years ago, but they had more time in which to enjoy and appreciate those they possessed.

We have a feeling that President Hoover will think twice before calling another special session of congress.

Are the Democrats keeping a Republican at the head of their national party committee just to show how independent they are?

YOUR BROADWAY AND MINE

By Walter Winchell

NEW YORK. — Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, who was going to try to bar new cut rate taxis from the street, but not approving their meters, soon came to the conclusion they would benefit traffic by being shorter. It became known no less a person than Henry Ford was back of the plan. The cheap Ford taxi is to spread to other cities, too.

SOMETHING NEW
Construction of a foundation and first story of one huge new building in New York never will be stopped by the weather. That's the structure taking the place of the armory on Broadway, 67th to 68th streets. Constructors simply let the block wide canopyed armory roof hang in two walls and put a steamship inside to excavate for the foundation.

A GOLDEN BASEMENT
More gold comes out of New York's diggings than from most gold mines. A part of the basement of the 56-story Chanin building on 42nd street near Grand Central terminal has been leased to a restaurant company for $1,000,000 for 20 years.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES
The old hurdy-gurdy man with his wheezing musical contraption has all but disappeared from New York streets. There is no apparent reason for this, since up to a short time ago the musical carts seemed to be getting their share of stray pennies and nickels. It's possible that the radio stores have driven the hurdy-gurdy into disrepair. Street horns of stores draw big crowds of idlers, as one doesn't have to fork over a penny to keep them going.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Under new rulings certain states of the union will have more members in the lower house of congress. Fortunately there are but two from every state in the senate. That is usually enough. No change is contemplated. For a state to have additional members in congress may mean something or it may mean less than nothing. Too many congressmen now look upon election as merely a soft job in which they will be taken care of for another two years. What work they do is devoted to perpetuating themselves in the soft job.

Democracy is no good only insofar as it breeds leadership. There are few leaders in congress. Democracy is a fine idea. It is also workable if those who are chosen to function feel a deep personal responsibility to those whom they represent. Few feel it.

ACTION IN CIRCLES

Some people regard their ability to get things done quickly as a great virtue. It isn't. Many things might be better left undone. Perhaps if we left over until tomorrow half the things we do today we wouldn't do them at all, and that would be better for everybody.

Many men boast of their ability to make snap judgment, to give their answers right off the bat. Their answers are usually wrong. Their snap judgment is generally bad. The man who delays his decision, who thinks matters over deliberately, who gets all the advice and counsel he can, is the smart man. He is at least more likely to reach a higher percentage of right decisions.

LAND OF PATIENCE

Speaking of not hurrying on decisions, an Ohio woman, back from South America, calls the republic of Uruguay the "land of patience." Down there nothing is done today that can be done tomorrow. While that policy can be over-played many of us have something important to learn from the Uruguayans.

A SIGN

Since the experiment of prohibition was undertaken in the United States there have been few developments of such deep significance as the recent organization of prominent and intelligent women into a league opposed to prohibition. The W. C. T. U. with long and honorable history of achievement, does well to take note of the new league. In this group of women, growing by additions from all over the country, are such persons as Mrs. Charles Fiske, wife of the Protestant Episcopal bishop of central New York; Mrs. Stanley Field, wife of the president of the field museum in Chicago; Miss Virginia Childers, dean of Barnard College for Women; Mrs. Olive Rannels, wife of the vice president of the Pullman company, and Mrs. Meredith Nicholson, wife of the Indiana author. There are many others and they are not lightweights. No man or woman, no matter what his attitude on prohibition, shows wisdom who takes lightly organizations of intelligent people who are on the opposite side.

Nobody is ever always right.

OPERATION OF DEBENTURE PLAN EXPLAINED

By MARVIN JONES
Congressman From Texas
Marvin Jones was born near Valley View, Tex. He is a graduate of Southwestern university, later obtaining an L. B. degree at the University of Texas. In 1907 he was admitted to the bar and began practicing at Amarillo. He was elected to congress from eighteenth Texas district in 1917 and he has been returned each term since. During the World war he served in the tank corps. He is a Democrat.

The so-called export-debenture plan, stated in simple terms, merely provides for the use of part of what the federal government collects in tariff duties on foreign goods and paying an export premium or bounty on surplus agricultural commodities shipped out. Its purpose is to make the tariff effective on products of the farm and ranch, just as it is now effective on manufactured articles. For illustration let us assume the existence of a surplus of wheat which must be shipped abroad.

The exporter, whether farmer, co-operative association or other person, would receive from the United States treasury a certificate showing the fact and the amount of such shipment abroad. This certificate would be known as an export debenture. It would be accepted by the government in payment of any import duty on any commodity whatever coming into this country.

The value of the certificate would be 21 cents for every bushel of wheat exported. It would be negotiable and could be used directly or sold to any importer who could use the debenture at its full face value in payment of the customs duties on any goods which he brings from the outside into America. The plan would operate in a similar manner on all other surplus farm commodities.

Its immediate effect would be to increase the price of all wheat in America 20 cents per bushel, which would mean millions by way of increased prices to the wheat growers of the United States. It would mean millions in increased prices to the cotton growers of the south, and to the growers of other surplus crops.

This has been the effect in every country that has tried it. The whole domestic price level of the commodity rises the amount of the debenture.

As an independent proposition no one would advocate it. But as a part of a system no one can deny its logic and justice. It is merely restoring to the surplus farmer what is now taken away from him by force or law in the form of increased prices on tariff-laden articles.

Every objection which has been made against the debenture plan applies with equal force to the tariff system. So long as the protective tariff remains the policy of the country, the debenture plan, or some similar one, must also apply in order that there may be governmental justice and democracy of opportunity.

HOW TO ACHIEVE BEAUTY

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

With June skies shining above in all their glorious charm, it seems a shame to turn your back on the sun. But please take a few sensible anti-sunburn measures. You can enjoy your vacation days quite as completely, and they will leave no unpleasant reminders upon your face and skin.

You can play tennis all day long, if that is your favorite pastime. But wear a hat or one of the new sunvisor caps that are now so fashionable along the Riviera. And cover your face, neck and arms with a sun-proof cream or liquid powder. This precaution is equally advisable for a day of golfing, motoring or swimming.

And if you want to look tanned and golden, wear over this foundation a dark powder in the popular gipsy tan shade or in French ochre. Since the sunproof balms and lotions come in a natural skin tone, you can be as fair or as brown as you like by using over any one of them a powder in your favorite shade. And at the same time you can feel secure in the knowledge that your skin's beauty is protected.

The National commission really is a very able body. Doubtless it will emerge from its subcellar around 1933 or 1934 with an exceedingly fine report. The public will wonder what it is all about. BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 17.—President Hoover's "National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement"—as it has christened itself—is due to have cutthroat competition to buck right from the jump.

Two rival bodies of investigators will soon be on the field. Mr. Hoover furnished the inspiration for them, too.

When Mr. Hoover outlined to the country, during the last presidential campaign, his plan for an impartial commission, to investigate the prohibition situation and decide what ought to be done about it, it was generally recognized as a brilliant concept.

However, it appears to have been a perishable idea, which spoiled as a result of being kept too long. From an assurance of a wet-and-dry inquiry, with a lot of punch behind it, the project evolved itself into a not-very clearly defined scheme for a two or three-year period of dull, uninteresting research work, but a lot of dusty lawyers, into questions of court procedure and rules of evidence—with no more popular appeal than a discussion of the Einstein theory of relativity.

The thing having assumed this form in spite of him—it certainly was not what the president intended at the outset, for it was not what he proposed by a long shot—there he went ahead and appointed his board accordingly.

Even at that he was unable to get the personnel he wanted. He tried and tried, and got refusal after refusal.

All but the soggiest kind of heavyweights fought shy of the honor—all the legal lights themselves with any sparkle or scintillation or sense of humor.

Does this explain why the "National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement" adopted a policy of secrecy?—totally oblivious of the fact that publicity is the breath of life to the presidential purpose—and handicapped itself with such a seven-jointed name at its initial star chamber session?

President Hoover gave his commission the once over at the welcoming luncheon he ate with its 10 eminent lawyers and one school marm, on their recent arrival in Washington—and what he thought he kept a special message to congress, suggesting a couple of new committee's to supplement the commission's activities.

Supplement? Did he mean that?

Or did he mean to provide some pep?—and publicity?

Anyway he asked congress for a joint committee of senators and representatives to help the "National Commission" to combine the efforts of the various government departments in the direction of prohibition enforcement.

On his own part, the president undertook to contribute an additional committee from the departments themselves, to lend a hand to the same end.

These are the two rivals that the National Commission will have to compete with for popular acclaim. That the congressional joint committee, at least, will not hide its illumination under a bushel is a cinch. Congressional committees never do. They crave all the advertising they can get. It makes votes.

The less publicity—less departmental committee's press agenting may not be efficient; anyhow it will do its best.

It assuredly was Mr. Hoover's notion to commit the task of prohibition reorganization—more especially than anything else—to the National commission members.

If they had gone at it under a full head of steam, with every siren wide open, he unquestionably hoped it would prove to his advantage, and probably would have found no fault if they had made a few reputations among themselves also. But no—they took themselves too seriously.

They mentioned two or three years of testimony-taking and deliberation first.

Mr. Hoover desires some results by next year's congressional elections at the latest.

His two new committees will attend to that.

The National commission really is a very able body. Doubtless it will emerge from its subcellar around 1933 or 1934 with an exceedingly fine report.

The public will wonder what it is all about. In the meantime the "law observance and enforcement" criterion for better or for worse—will long previously have been shot and stuffed.

DIET AND HEALTH

Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ARTHRITIS DEFORMANS

"Dear Doctor: When I tell you of a remark my little boy of three made to me, you will understand somewhat of the forceful influence you have in our home. 'Mother, is Hunt Peters Jesus?' he asked. He has been fed on 'Hunt Peters' continuously, for I bought your book, 'Diet for Children,' and read and studied and lived it. And now, with the second baby, I am again finding it a gold mine of good, sound advice. I will always be grateful to you for writing that book, Dr. Peters. Can you help me to help my friend, 30 years old, with two small children; she is confined to bed with arthritis deformans, so her doctors tell her. But she is getting worse and she has been ailing for a year; her joints are badly swollen; she has lost much flesh. They are now trying electric heat treatments—electric blankets, shoes and pads. Can you give me any advice?" MRS. S."

Arthritis deformans is a most baffling disease, Mrs. S. All the sources of possible infection have to be removed; then electric heat (diathermy), special exercises, ultra-violet rays and other measures are used, and as the infection may come from the intestinal tract, sometimes colonic irrigations. There is a possibility that the patient may have been on a diet deficient in vitamins or unbalanced in other ways, so the diet must be high in fruits and vegetables and milk, which gives the vitamins. Cod liver oil may be given for its potency in Vitamins A and D.

In some forms of arthritis, it has been found that the sugar content of the blood is higher than normal. This is, perhaps, the reason overweighters are troubled with stiff joints, for this excess sugar in the blood lowers the resistance of infections. Eliminating a large part of the starches and sugars from the diet in these cases cures the arthritis. Those who are normal or overweight would, of course, have to make up the loss from other foods.

Thank you for letting me know of my standing in your household, Mrs. S., and give your darling little boy an extra kiss 'on the cheek' for me.

We have an article on Joint Inflammations and one on Balancer Diet which you may have by following column rules.

Mrs. H. N.—Your letter ooth saddened and gladdened me. It saddened me to know that you are suffering from so many serious disorders, and gladdened me to realize that one can be so afflicted and still remain cheery and appreciative of the beauties of life.

Your poetry is beautiful. It gives you a great deal of happiness to be able to express yourself in so lovely a manner.

Mrs. A. and others—I am not connected with any laboratory now, so please do not bother to send samples of medicines to me for analysis. Any patent medicine that has wide use may be analyzed by the laboratory of the American Medical Association, Chicago, if it is in the interests of public health, free of charge. And some city health laboratories will do the same.

I don't believe there is any internal medication that will help hemorrhoids, Mrs. A. If they are severe, they will have to be removed. We have an article on Varicose Veins which takes up hemorrhoids.

LIVING AND LOVING

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"If you can't have what you like, you must like what you can have." Sadly do we echo these wise words as we buy wedding and graduation presents. The things we want to give our young friends are always seven or eight times the price that we can afford to pay.

A carved white jade and coral necklace was shown me when I wanted to buy a modest graduating present for my niece, and it was pretty hard to get her a bracelet instead, even if it was sterling silver set with a real coralline.

Oh, we'll have to console ourselves with thinking that if we could buy all the lovely things we wanted they wouldn't mean much to us. When you're poor you can get a big thrill out of buying something pretty, even if it is inexpensive, and the really big things of life, like love and honor and loyalty, can't be bought with money.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Do you think a young man who is earning $125 a month should marry if he and the girl are both in excellent health? The girl is not going to work after she is married. How much should the young man have saved before he is married? The girl is 20 and the man is barely 23. Is that too young?"

"They are really in love, but never having been married before, they wish your advice. They do not attend dances, although they both dance well. They are not the type that is always looking for a 'good time,' so they wouldn't spend too much money on amusement."

It would be pretty close sailing, Dale, but it could be done, if both are willing to work hard and take simple pleasures. Get a budget book from one of your local banks and figure it out.

I know a couple not quite as old as the ones you speak of, who furnished a three-room bungalow in a suburb of New York with second-hand furniture. The young man is making rather more than the man you speak of, and the girl worked for a while, but now they are happily planning for a third member of the family.

Two or three hundred dollars, the least a man should have saved, more, really, as they should have some left in the savings account to take care of emergencies. If you had, say, $300 to buy furniture for a small apartment and $100 left for a rainy day, and then lived carefully, you could get along and have lots of fun, especially if the boy's prospects for promotion were good.

And here's a letter from a girl directed to other girls who want to be popular with the boys.

BUDDY JEN: Don't give in to him, dear, no matter what he says or how you are tempted. If you do, as sure as you and I are alive, he will lose his love for you, and, in time, cast you aside. Please believe me. The man who really loves a girl protects her virtue even from himself.

MISS 24: I don't see how I can be of much help. I know there are nice boys who appreciate a sweet, good girl, and you will just have to trust that you will meet him. Why worry about your age? You will be young for years and years yet. And why let a year or so difference in ages matter, especially as you look so young?

PETER'S ADVENTURES

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

SOME CONCERT!

It is said that when one does the right thing one always is rewarded. And Peter was glad he had hurried after Mr. Grasshopper, to tell him he was sorry if he had hurt that insect's feelings—that he hadn't meant to. For after he had stumbled some distance through the grasses he came in sight of a crowd of Grasshoppers—the Grasshopper orchestra, Peter was sure of it.

And Peter was right. In the center of the crowd was a big brown toadstool. On the top of the toadstool stood a fat Grasshopper, and as Peter drew nearer he could see that this fat Grasshopper was beating time with one wing.

"Ah, that must be the leader of the orchestra!" muttered Peter. And again Peter was right.

The cross old gentleman who had scolded Peter for not watching his step and then had invited the boy to the concert was evidently on the lookout for the boy. For the minute he spied Peter's head among the grasses he called—

"Hurry up, Slow-Poke. I can't wait for you any longer. It's my turn to perform right this very minute. If you want to hear me at my best, stop up closer."

A hop, skip and a jump, and the little old gentleman was on top of a second toadstool. And before he could say "Ja, Robinson," every Grasshopper had hopped upon a toadstool. The concert began.

Zip, zip, zip!

Locusts fiddled with their wings upon their legs. Crickets scraped and scratched with their front wings upon their hind ones. Their cousins, the Longhorns, used their foreheads as drums and beat loudly upon them until Peter feared they would give themselves terrible headaches.

Peter had taken his perch upon a stalk of goldenrod, where he could see and hear everything. And the odd antics of the Grasshoppers and their uncles, and their cousins, and their aunts amused him. He wanted to laugh but he dared not, for he had found out by experience that Grasshopper people hate to be laughed at. When he just couldn't keep back his chuckle he turned his back upon the orchestra and pretended to sneeze. He wasn't going to risk hurting anybody else's feelings that way.

And it wasn't long before Peter decided that it was the most interesting concert he had ever been to, even if the music did sound all out of tune to his ears, and the instruments were stranger than any instruments he could have imagined.

With the odds against it, the music was chirrupy and soothing. It and the gentle swaying of the stalk upon which Peter was perching made Peter sleepy. Not thinking what might happen should he sound asleep and lose his balance, Peter's head dropped. He was drowsing.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD—The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up. Form that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, Repent; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. —Matthew 4:16, 17.

FREAKISH NOTIONS

Always they have had queer ideas and have done queer things in Wisconsin. So it is not especially surprising that after federal officers confiscated seven barrels of beer with which the "boys" were preparing to celebrate the seventy-fifth G. O. P. birthday party, held at Ripon, Assemblyman L. A. Lamoreaux drew up the resolution from which we here quote, in order to present it to the state legislature:

"Be it resolved that the federal government be requested to desist from enforcing the Eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution in Wisconsin hereafter, in consideration of the wishes of the people expressed at the polls on April 3, and the almost unbroken line of support given by the state of Wisconsin to the Republican party."

It might be worth while as a pastime to listen to an exposition by Assemblyman Lamoreaux of his ideas about the relationship existing between the federal government and the states. Apparently the gentleman feels that whenever any part of the national constitution or any national statute is disagreeable to the people of a state, all they need to do is to say so, in order to be exempted from its operation. And we suppose he believes as a corollary that where Washington proves unaccommodating, the next thing in order for the state is to secede.

However, Mr. Lamoreaux plainly hopes it will be unnecessary to proceed to extremes and establish an independent capital at Madison where beer will flow like milk and honey. He conveys a more than delicate hint that it is up to the president and other Republican party leaders to forget the obnoxious article in the constitution and fix the thing as a repayment for political benefits conferred by Wisconsin on the G. O. P. The assemblyman is a naive soul; and not the least interesting of his mental processes is the one by which he arrives at the remarkable conclusion that Wisconsin has been something beside a disloyalist and troublemaker in the Republican camp.

It isn't the prevalence of cars on the streets and highways that makes the trouble; it's the lack of prevalence of sense behind the wheels that causes the difficulty.

People had fewer "advantages" fifty years ago, but they had more time in which to enjoy and appreciate those they possessed.

We have a feeling that President Hoover will think twice before calling another special session of congress.

Are the Democrats keeping a Republican at the head of their national party committee just to show how independent they are?

YOUR BROADWAY AND MINE

NEW YORK.—Police Commissioner Grover Whalen, who was going to try to bar new cut rate taxis from the street, but not approving their meters, soon came to the conclusion they would benefit traffic by being shorter. It became known no less a person than Henry Ford was back of the plan. The cheap Ford taxi is to spread to other cities, too.

FUTURISTIC STORE FRONTS—"Variety," theatrical magazine, discovering a futuristic, Urban shop-front that has been an attraction on 34th street for several months, says the scenic design will do other fronts in this manner. They attract gaping crowds. It may be pointed out that this treatment originated in Europe. Paris has many futuristic shops. Berlin, also, went in for the thing a few years back. It is unlikely to spread to smaller cities, as the architecture is not considered permanent. And the first one of these fronts in New York is reported to have cost $175,000—the concern, however, reporting a splendid return on the investment.

THE IMPOSSIBLE CITY—A tourist, returning from Europe, says New York is horrible because of its noises, that no European city would put up with it. Gone four months, she counted ten new skyscrapers on Fifth Avenue upon her return. "Of course, that would be impossible abroad," she admits.

WHAT'S IN A NAME—For the information of summer visitors to New York, the first morning paper comes out at eight the previous night, and the first evening paper at five in the morning.

SOMETHING NEW—Construction of a foundation and first story of one huge new building in New York never will be stopped by the weather. That's the structure taking the place of the armory on Broadway, 67th to 68th streets. Constructors simply left the block wide canopy armory roof hanging to two walls and put a steam shovel inside to excavate for the foundation.

A GOLDEN BASEMENT—More gold comes out of New York's diggings than from most gold mines. A part of the basement of the 56-story Chanin building on 42nd street near Grand Central terminal has been leased to a restaurant company for $1,000,000 for 20 years.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—The old hurdy-gurdy man with his wheezing musical contraption has all but disappeared from New York streets. There is no apparent reason for this, since up to a short time ago the musical carts seemed to be getting their share of stray pennies and nickels. It's possible that the radio stores have driven the hurdy-gurdy into disrepute. Street horns of stores draw big crowds of idlers, as one doesn't have to fork over a penny to keep them going.

HOW TO ACHIEVE BEAUTY

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

With June skies shining above in all their glorious charm, it seems a shame to warn you against summer complexion hazards. For the first days of this new season are sweetly deceptive about the dangers that will come as the summer wears on. Just now you want to bask in the sunshine whenever possible. And the faint rosy flush of your season's first sunburn seems a pleasant, novel experience, one you haven't had since last year.

But wait. Wait till later days bring burns that blister and peel, and tans that grow darker and skin that becomes leathery as the fall approaches! Then you will wish that you had taken care at the season's very beginning to protect your good looks from these devastating effects.

I warn you solemnly now that your complexion is in danger as the summer approaches. From the very first you should protect it. If you would have a skin to be proud of in months and years to come, you should use a sun-proof cream or liquid powder. This precaution is equally advisable and effective for a day of golfing, motoring or swimming.

And if you want to look tanned and golden, wear over this foundation a dark powder in the popular spray tan shade or in French ochre. Since the sunproof balms and lotions come in a natural skin tone, you can be as fair or as brown as you like by using over any one of them a powder in your favorite shade. WASHINGTON, June 17.—President Hoover's "National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement"—as it has christened itself—is due to have outthroat competition to buck right from the jump.

Two rival bodies of investigators will soon be on the field. Mr. Hoover furnished the inspiration for them, too.

When Mr. Hoover outlined to the country during the last presidential campaign, his plan for an impartial commission, to investigate the prohibition situation and decide what ought to be done about it, it was generally recognized as a brilliant concept.

However, it appears to have been a perishable idea, which spoiled as a result of being kept too long. From an assurance of a wet-and-

dry inquiry, with a lot of punch behind it, the project evolved itself into a not-very clearly defined scheme for a two or three-year period of dull, uninteresting research work, but a lot of dusty lawyers, into questions of court procedure and rules of evidence—with no more popular appeal than a discussion of the Einstein theory of relativity.

The thing having assumed this form in spite of him—it certainly was not what the president intended at the outset, for it was not what he proposed by a long shot—there was nothing for Mr. Hoover to do but go ahead and appoint his board accordingly.

Even at that he was unable to get the personnel he wanted.

He tried and tried, and got refusal after refusal.

All but the slightest kind of heavyweights fought shy of the honor—all the legal lights themselves with any sparkle or scintillation or sense of humor.

Does this explain why the "National Commission of Law Observance and Enforcement" adopted a policy of secrecy—totally oblivious of the fact that publicity is the breath of life to the presidential purpose—and handicapped itself with such a seven-jointed name at its initial star chamber session?

enticing enough to make them forget that ladies must have fair skins and hair of a fadeless sheen.

Today, of course, styles in complexion have somewhat changed. Golden brown skins are even more smart than lily white ones. But no style will ever demand that women have skins of a dry, lined, leathery-brown. And that is what summer tans will lead to, unless you take precautions against it.

By all means go out of doors this summer. Be as pagan as you like in your devotion to the great old Sun. But please take a few sensible anti-sunburn measures. You can enjoy your vacation days quite as completely, and they will leave no unpleasant reminders upon your face and skin.

You can play tennis all day long, if that is your favorite pastime. But wear a hat or one of the new sunvisor caps that are now so fashionable along the Riviera. And cover your face, neck and arms with a sun-proof cream or liquid powder. This precaution is equally advisable and effective for a day of golfing, motoring or swimming.

It assuredly was Mr. Hoover's notion to commit the task of prohibition reorganization—more especially than anything else—to the National commission members.

If they had gone at it under a full head of steam, with every siren wide open, he unquestionably hoped it would prove to his advantage, and probably would have found no fault if they had made a few reputations among themselves also. But no—they took themselves too seriously. They mentioned two or three years of testimony-taking and deliberation first.

Mr. Hoover desires some results by next year's congressional elections at the latest.

His two new committees will attend to that.

The National commission really is a very able body. Doubtless it will emerge from its subcellar around 1932 or 1934 with an exceedingly fine report.

The public will wonder what it is all about.

In the meantime the "law observance and enforcement" critter—for better or for worse—will long previously have been shot and stuffed.

joint committee of senators and representatives to help the "National Commission" to combine the efforts of the various government departments in the direction of prohibition enforcement.

On his own part, the president undertook to contribute an additional committee from the departments themselves, to lend a hand to the same end.

These are the two rivals that the National Commission will have to compete with for popular acclaim.

That the congressional joint committee, at least, will not hide its illumination under a bushel is a cinch. Congressional committees never do. They crave all the advertising they can get. It makes votes.

The less publicity—very departmental committee's press agenting may not be efficient; anyhow it will do its best.

DIET AND HEALTH

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

ARTHRITIS DEFORMANS

"Dear Doctor: When I tell you of a remark my little boy of three made to me, you will understand somewhat of the forceful influence you have in our home. 'Mother, is Hunt Peters Jesus?' he asked. He has been fed on 'Hunt Peters' continuously, for I bought your book, 'Diet for Children,' and read and studied and lived it. And now, with the second baby, I am again finding it a gold mine of good, sound advice. I will always be grateful to you for writing that book, Dr. Peters.

"Can you help me to help my friend, 30 years old, with two small children; she is confined to bed with arthritis deformans, so her doctors tell her. But she is getting worse and she has been alling for a year; her joints are badly swollen; she has lost much flesh. They are now trying electric heat treatments—electric blankets, shoes and pads. Can you give me any advice?"

Arthritis deformans is a most baffling disease, Mrs. S. All the sources of possible infection have to be removed; then electric heat (diathermy), special exercises, ultra-violet rays and other measures are used, and as the infection may come from the intestinal tract, sometimes colonic irrigations. There is a possibility that the patient may have been on a diet deficient in vitamins or unbalanced in other ways, so the diet must be high in fruits and vegetables and milk, which gives the vitamins. Cod liver oil may be given for its potency in Vitamins A and D.

In some forms of arthritis, it has been found that the sugar content of the blood is higher than normal. This is, perhaps, the reason overweighters are troubled with stiff joints, for this excess sugar in the blood lowers the resistance of infections. Eliminating a large part of the starches and sugars from the diet in these cases cures the arthritis. Those who are normal or underweight would, of course, have to make up the loss by other foods.

Thank you for letting me know of my standing in your household. Mrs. S. and give your darling little boy an extra kiss for the sweet, of his neck) for me.

We have an article on Joint Inflammations and one on Balanced Diet which you may have by following column rules.

Mrs. H. N.—Your letter both saddened and gladdened me. It saddened me to know that you are suffering from so many serious disorders, and gladdened me to realize that one can be so afflicted and still remain cheerful and appreciative of the beauties of life. I regret very much that I am unable to give you any suggestion, except that of putting yourself in the hands of a competent physician, living as hygienically as you can (as much out of doors as possible), and continuing your hopeful outlook. There is no doubt that Nature works to very much greater advantage with the spirit such as you show than it does with hopelessness and despair.

Your poetry is beautiful. It gives you a great deal of happiness to be able to express yourself in so lovely a manner.

Mrs. A. and others—I am not connected with any laboratory now, so please do not bother to send samples of medicines to me for analysis. Any patent medicine that has wide use may be analyzed by the laboratory of the American Medical association, Chicago, if it is in the interests of public health, free of charge. And some city health laboratories will do the same.

I don't believe there is any internal medication that will help hemorrhoids, Mrs. A. If they are severe, they will have to be removed. We have an article on Varicose Veins which takes up hemorrhoids.

LIVING AND LOVING
By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"If you can't have what you like, you must like what you can have." Sadly do we echo these wise words as we buy wedding and graduation presents. The things we want to give our young friends are always seven or eight times the price that we can afford to pay.

A carved white jade and coral necklace was shown me when I wanted to buy a modest graduating present for my niece, and it was pretty hard to get her a bracelet instead, even if it was sterling silver set with a real coralline.

Oh, we'll have to console ourselves with thinking that if we could buy all the lovely things we wanted they wouldn't mean much to us. When you're poor you can get a big thrill out of buying something pretty, even if it is inexpensive, and the really big things of life, like love and honor and loyalty, can't be bought with money.

DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Do you think a young man who is earning $125 a month should marry if he and the girl are both in excellent health? The girl is not going to work after she is married. How much should the young man have saved before he is married? The girl is 20 and the man is barely 23. Is that too young?

They are really in love, but never having been married before, they wish your advice. They do not attend dances, although they both dance well. They are not the type that is always looking for a 'good time,' so they wouldn't spend too much money on amusement.

It would be pretty close sailing, Dale, but it could be done, if both are willing to work hard and take simple pleasures. Get a budget book from one of your local banks and figure it out.

I know a couple not quite as old as the ones you speak of, who furnished a three-room bungalow in a suburb of New York with second-hand furniture. The young man is making rather more than the man you speak of, and the girl worked for a while, but now they are happily planning for a third member of the family.

Two or three hundred dollars, the least a man should have saved, more, really, as they should have some left in the savings account to take care of emergencies. If you had, say, $300 to buy furniture for a small apartment and $100 left for a rainy day, and then lived carefully, you could get along and have lots of fun, especially if the boy's prospects for promotion were good.

And here's a letter from a girl directed to other girls who want to be popular with the boys.

BUDDY JEN: Don't give in to him, dear, no matter what he says or how you are tempted. If you do, as sure as you and I are alive, he will lose his love for you, and in time, cast you aside. Please believe me. The man who really loves a girl protects her virtue even from himself.

MISS 24: I don't see how I can be of much help. I know there are nice boys who appreciate a sweet, good girl, and you will just have to trust that you will meet him. Why worry about your age? You will be young for years and years yet. And why let a year or so difference in ages matter, especially as you look so young?

THE ONE-MINUTE PULPIT
Thou shalt be hid from the scourge of the tongue; neither shalt thou be afraid of destruction when it cometh.—Job, v, 21.

Locusts fiddled with their wings upon their legs. Crickets scraped and scratched with their front wings upon their hind ones. Their cousins, the Longhorns, used their foreheads as drums and beat loudly upon them until Peter feared they would give themselves terrible headaches.

Peter had taken his perch upon a stalk of goldenrod, where he could see and hear everything. And the odd antics of the Grasshoppers and their uncles, and their cousins, and their aunts amused him. He wanted to laugh but he dared not, for he had found out by experience that Grasshopper people hate to be laughed at. When he just couldn't keep back his chuckle he turned his back upon the orchestra and pretended to sneeze. He wasn't going to risk hurting anybody else's feelings that way.

And it wasn't long before Peter decided that it was the most interesting concert he had ever been to. Even if the music did sound all out of tune to his ears, and the instruments were stranger than any instruments he could have imagined.

With the odds against it, the music was chirrupy and soothing. It and the gentle swaying of the stalk upon which Peter was perching made Peter sleepy. Not thinking what might happen should he sound asleep and lose his balance, Peter's head dropped. He was drowsing.

SOME CONCERT!
It is said that when one does the right thing one always is rewarded. And Peter was glad he had hurried after Mr. Grasshopper to tell him he was sorry if he had hurt that insect's feelings—that he hadn't meant to. For after he had stumbled some distance through the grasses he came in sight of a crowd of Grasshoppers—the Grasshopper orchestra, Peter was sure of it.

And Peter was right. In the center of the crowd was a big brown toadstool. On the top of the toadstool stood a fat Grasshopper, and as Peter drew nearer he could see that this fat Grasshopper was beating time with one wing.

"Ah, that must be the leader of the orchestra!" muttered Peter. And again Peter was right.

The cross old gentleman who had selected Peter for not watching his step and then had invited the boy to the concert was evidently on the look-out for the boy. For the minute he spied Peter's head among the grasses he called—

"Hurry up, Slow-Poke. I can't wait for you any longer. It's my turn to perform right this very minute. If you want to hear me at my best, step up closer."

A hop, skip and a jump, and the little old gentleman was on top of a second toadstool. And before one could say "Jack Robinson" every Grasshopper had hopped upon a Toadstool. The concert began.

Zip, zip, zip!

Sour Cream Cookies—One egg, one cup sugar, three-fourths cup sour cream, two cups flour, three-eighths teaspoon soda, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Beat eggs well, add sugar and cream, then dry ingredients, sifted together. Drop by teaspoons an inch apart on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven fifteen minutes.

Ham-Tomato Toast—One tablespoon chopped onion, one tablespoon chopped green pepper, two tablespoons butter, one and one-half cups stewed tomatoes, one egg, Cook onion and pepper in butter until soft; add tomatoes and simmer ten minutes. Add ham, and mix slightly beaten. Cook until egg has thickened mixture and pour over slices of crisp toast.

HUSTON SMACKS OUT HOMER AND DOWNTOWNERS BEAT HARNESS

A home run by Huston, first baseman, in the seventh after two were out enabled the Downtown Country Club to defeat the champion Harness Cigars, 3 to 2 and ease into undisputed possession of first place in the National Softball League Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field before the largest crowd of the season.

Huston's circuit smash came with the bases empty but the Babe Ruth act provided the winning run as it shattered a 2 to 2 tie score.

The victory was the sixth in a row for the Downtowners.

The D. T. C. Club assumed a one-run lead in the last half of the first inning when with one out, Corri singled. He was forced by Huston, but LeSourd walked and Wilson scored Huston with a timely single.

After being held scoreless for three rounds, Harness bunched four hits for its two runs in the fourth to take a momentary lead. Successive singles by Paul Fuller and Bob Veakley and a three-base hit by Paul Boxwell accounted for the two tallies. Huston was nipped at the plate trying to stretch his drive into a homer. Bottorff fanned and A. Boxwell singled to center but Leopold fled out.

In the sixth the Downtowners tied the score. LeSourd was safe on an error by Cain. Wilson was also given a life on an error but was called out at second. LeSourd taking third. He crossed the plate on Eavey's third hit of the game. In the seventh Huston drove a long hit over Fuller's head to provide the winning margin.

Harness obtained ten hits against nine for the winners. Eavey led the Downtowners at bat with three hits in four times at bat, including a triple. Smith, P. Fuller, P. Boxwell and A. Boxwell each made two hits apiece for the losers. Frame pitched for the winners and P. Boxwell for the losers.

Ball Star Admitted to High Court

Charles E. Cropley, left, clerk of the Supreme Court at Washington, D. C., presents Harold "Muddy" Ruel, Washington catcher, with papers admitting him to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States. The noted ball player has for years been a member of a law firm in St. Louis where he has engaged in active practice when not on the diamond.

OLD TIMERS TODAY

In Which George Stovall Writes About Baseball Stars of Other Days.

By GEORGE STOVALL
Former Star Big League First Baseman and Former Manager Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City Fed-erals. Written Especially for Central Press and The Gazette.

Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance, the most famous infield combination baseball ever knew, is now but a name to a new diamond generation. But to the old-timer and the not-so-old-timer there can never be another double-play combination quite so wonderful as the Three Terrors of the Chicago Cubs.

Though Tinker and Evers and Chance were alike in being triple stars and the idols of the Windy City, fate has dealt differently with them.

Frank Chance is dead. Johnny Evers is making a sort of baseball comeback as assistant manager of the Boston Nationals. Joe Tinker is a wealthy Floridian.

During the boom several years ago Tinker was said to have become a millionaire through successful real estate operations. The deflation may have lessened his fortunes, but he still has plenty to keep the wolf from the door. He lives in Orlando.

Tinker was one of the National league's greatest shortstops. He was a major unit in the great Cub machine which rolled up pennant after pennant in Chicago's halcyon baseball days.

It was Joe Tinker who helped Johnny Evers complete the famous play against Merkle, when the New York infielder failed to touch second and was called out, forcing a playoff of the game and eventually costing the Giants the flag.

I knew Tinker back in the days when he was playing with the Hogan-Tailors, a Kansas City independent club, and I was first-basing for the May-Sterns, another K. C. club. Tinker always was a smart ball player and it wasn't long before his ability was recognized and he was on his way up.

Many fans and sports writers used to wonder why Tinker, who rated just fair as a batter, could hit Matthewson with so much success. I'll tell you why. Joe got several hits off Matty when he first faced the Giants' pitching ace, and Tinker's drives beat Christy out of a couple of games. After that, Joe felt he had the Indian sign of Matty, and McGraw's great pitcher may have felt the same way, for Tinker in one season won five games from New York by his individual hitting and in four of them Matty was the victim.

This work will interfere in no way with the service at the library as contrary to the usual practice books are not being removed from the shelves. Instead, the necessary information and replaces the book. In this way every book is still available for circulation.

When this work has been completed the catalog will be a useful tool not only for the librarians but for the public as well. It will be an alphabetically arranged encyclopedia of information about the books of the library and like the right kind of encyclopedia it will be so simple that children of 8 and 10 will be able to use it.

Miss Emma Lyons, secretary of the joint Red Cross Chapter and Social Service League gave a splendid address on the ways and means of social service work at the regular weekly meeting of the Xenia Rotary Club at the Elks' Club Tuesday noon. Miss Lyons told of her duties and of how to approach a person who is in need of help.

Mrs. Richard McClelland sang several selections accompanied by Miss Juanita Rankin. Miss Rankin also gave several piano selections.

NO COMPETITION FOR WOODCHOPPER

CORINTH, N. Y., June 18.—A new world's championship was claimed recently by Peter McLaren, doughty Australian, who challenged all comers in a wood-chopping exhibition.

Built along the lines of Jesse Wilhard, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, McLaren wielded his axe so deftly, cutting through a log sixteen inches in diameter in one minute and 20 seconds, that not one of the hardy woodsmen who witnessed his feat accepted his challenge. One chunk hewed from the log was ten inches wide and five inches thick.

Following his demonstration, McLaren shouldered his axe and set out for Saranac Lake and Tupper Lake, where he said "the woods are big and I hope to find a hardy 'feller' to accept my challenge."

HUSTON SMACKS OUT HOMER AND DOWNTOWNERS BEAT HARNESS

A home run by Huston, first baseman, in the seventh after two were out enabled the Downtown Country Club to defeat the champion Harness Club, 3 to 2 and ease into undisputed possession of first place in the National Softball League Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field before the largest crowd of the season.

Huston's circuit smash came with the bases empty but the Babe Ruth act provided the winning run as it shattered a 2 to 2 tie score.

The victory was the sixth in a row for the Downtowners.

The D. T. C. Club assumed a one-run lead in the last half of the first inning when with one out, Corb singled. He was forced by Huston, but LeSourd walked and Wilson scored Huston with a timely single.

After being held scoreless for three rounds, Harness bunched four hits for its two runs in the fourth to take a momentary lead. Successive singles by Paul Fuller and Bob Yeakley and a three-base hit by Paul Boxwell accounted for the two tallies. Boxwell was nipped at the plate trying to stretch his drive into a homer. Bottorff fanned and A. Boxwell singled to center but Leopold flied out.

In the sixth the Downtowners tied the score. LeSourd was safe on an error by Cain. Wilson was also given a life on an error but was called out at second. LeSourd taking third. He crossed the plate on Eavey's third hit of the game. In the seventh Huston drove a long hit over Fuller's head to provide the winning margin.

Harness obtained ten hits against nine for the winners. Eavey led the Downtowners at bat with three hits in four times at bat, including a triple. Smith, P. Fuller, P. Boxwell and A. Boxwell each made two hits apiece for the losers. Frame pitched for the winners and P. Boxwell for the losers.

INSTEAD of exercise

If you haven't time for regular exercise, better learn the secret millions already know—the secret of the exerciser in the vest-pocket for a dime.

Leading physicians say Cascarets give your bowels as much real exercise as you get from an hour in the water.

Cascarets are made from Cascara Sacra, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action. They weaken your bowels whenever you resort to them.

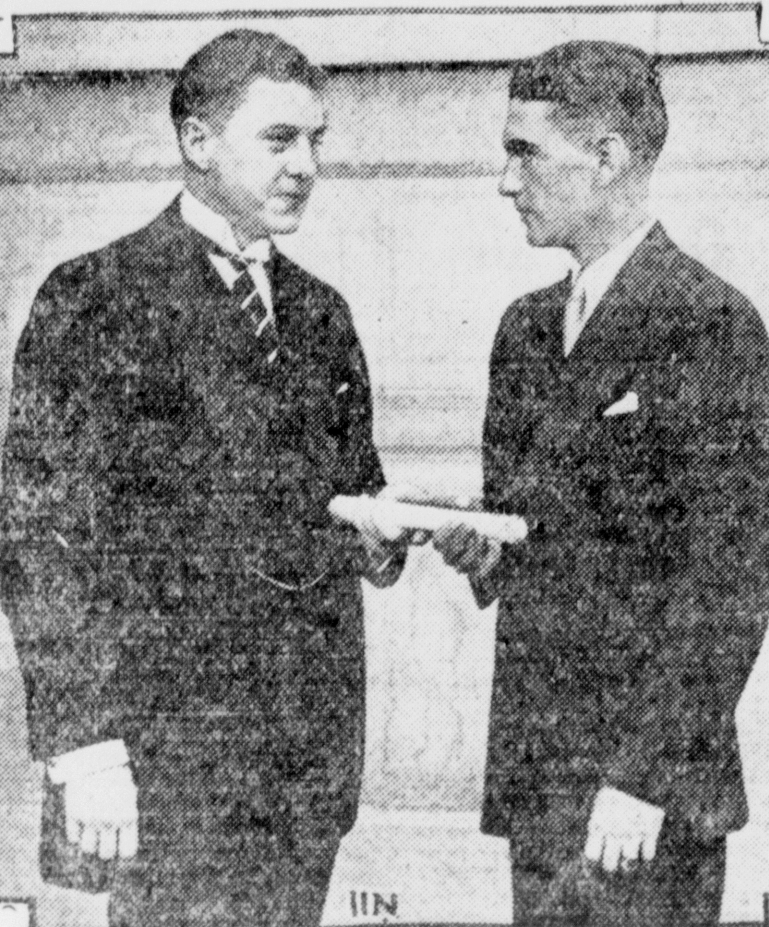

Every time you take Cascarets your bowels become stronger. That's the reason they give lasting relief from constipation, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, bloating, etc. That's why 20 million boxes are used yearly.

Ball Star Admitted to High Court

Charles E. Copley, left, clerk of the Supreme Court at Washington, D. C., presents Harold "Muddy" Ruel, Washington catcher, with papers admitting him to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States. The noted ball player has for years been a member of a law firm in St. Louis where he has engaged in active practice when not on the diamond.

OLD TIMERS TODAY

In Which George Stovall Writes About Baseball Stars Of Other Days.

By GEORGE STOVALL
Former Star Big League First Baseman and Former Manager Cleveland Indians, St. Louis Browns and Kansas City Cardinals. Written Especially for Central Press and The Gazette.

Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance, the most famous infield combination baseball ever knew, is now but a name to a new diamond generation. But to the old-timer and the not-so-old-timer there can be no other double-play combination quite so wonderful as the Three Terrors of the Chicago Cubs.

Chance Tinker and Evers and Chance were alike in being triple stars and the idols of the Windy City, fate has dealt differently with them.

Frank Chance is dead, Johnny Evers is making a sort of comeback as assistant manager of the Boston Nationals. Joe Tinker is a wealthy Floridian.

During the boom several years ago Tinker was said to have become a millionaire through successful real estate operations. The deflation may have lessened his fortune, but he still has plenty to keep him out of the door. He lives in Orlando.

Tinker was one of the National league's greatest shortstops. He was a major unit in the great Cub machine which rolled up pennant after pennant in Chicago's baseball days.

It was Joe Tinker who helped Johnny Evers complete the famous play against Merkle, when the New York infielder failed to touch second and was called out, forcing a playoff of the game and eventually costing the Giants the flag.

I knew Tinker back in the days when he was playing with the Hogan-Taylor, a Kansas City independent club, and I was first-baseman for the May-Sterns, another K. C. club. Tinker always was a smart ball player and it wasn't long before his ability was recognized and he was on his way up.

Many fans and sports writers used to wonder why Tinker, who rated just fair as a batter, could hit Matthewson with so much success. I'll tell you why. Joe got several hits off Matty when he first faced the Giants' pitching ace, and Tinker's drives beat Christy out of a couple of games. After that, Joe felt he had the Indian sign of Matty, and McGraw's great pitcher may have felt the same way for Tinker in one season won five games from New York by his individual hitting and in four of them Matty was the victim.

NO COMPETITION FOR WOODCHOPPER

CORINTH, N. Y., June 18.—A new world's championship was claimed here recently by Peter McLaren, doughty Australian, who challenged all comers in a wood-chopping exhibition.

Built along the lines of Jesse Willard, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, McLaren wielded his axe so deftly, cutting through a log sixteen inches in diameter in one minute and 20 seconds, that not one of the hardy woodsmen who witnessed his feat accepted his challenge.

One chunk hewed from the log was ten inches wide and five inches thick.

Following his demonstration, McLaren shouldered his axe and set out for Saranac Lake and Tupper Lake, where he said "the woods are big and I hope to find a hardy 'faller' to accept my challenge."

CAMP MIAMI OPENS JULY 8; 2,000 BOY SCOUTS TO ATTEND

Two thousand Boy Scouts of Telemseh Council are anxiously awaiting the formal opening of the six-week period during which Camp Miami will be maintained this summer. The camp will open July 8 and will close August 19. Letters and bulletins describing camp life as it will be enjoyed at Camp Miami on the Bryan state farm near Yellow Springs this year have been mailed out by H. O. Portz, Springfield Scout executive, and an exceptional response is reported.

Arthur V. Miller, city clerk, is Greene County chairman of campers. A majority of local Scouts plan to attend the first camping period which extends from July 8 to July 22.

The only Greene County Scout who expects to attend the camp all summer is Lester Price, a member of Troop No. 41.

In order to stimulate early registration for a camp period of two or more weeks, free swimming trunks valued at $1 will be furnished the first 100 boys to register for a two-week period on or before June 25.

Executive Portz will personally direct the work of the camp, and will be on the job during the entire six weeks of the camping period. It is also arranged to have more Scoutmasters, assistant Scoutmasters and troop committeemen at Camp Miami than in past years in order to have the Scouts camping there under the familiar leadership of their own troop leaders.

The camp period is divided into three periods of two weeks each. They are July 8-22; July 22-August 5, and August 5-19.

THE FLAT TIRE A DRAB LITTLE MOTH FLIES TO HAPPINESS BY ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY, AUTHOR OF 'MAKE UP' ETC. © 1929 CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC.

READ THIS FIRST: Vivian Matthews, shy and unhappy because she was a doorstep baby, is considered a "flat tire" by the younger set of Bender, Kan. Kentworth Hillman Johns III offers her one hundred thousand dollars, and a divorce in Paris at the end of the year if she will marry him so he can get the fortune willed by his grandfather, in New York, transformed with clothes which her French maid selects, she attracts the attention of Mann Barkow, the famous illustrator, and goes to dinner with him. He flies to Bender to paint her portrait, and Patricia Sullivan, "Cuddles Namara" on Broadway, home for the summer, consents to say that he has flown to see her.

She flies to Salina with Mann Barkow, and is thrilled with the experience. In his studio later she drinks her first cocktail. At home a stunning sight awaits her. (Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV Dovie was aware that Kent and Vivian were standing in the driveway. But she purposely pretended not to see them. It would have been embarrassing. Some other way would have to be figured out. She was also aware that Vivian had run into the house. And that Kent stood there for almost a minute staring at her. She picked flowers nonchalantly, her scarlet dress a flame against the tall autumn flowers, realizing that she made a pretty picture.

A moment later her mother, who had been looking from the dining room window, joined her in the garden. "Quite dramatic, my dear! Why didn't you just yell 'ho! ho!' and surprise that little red-headed impostor out of her shoes?" "Don't be dumb, mother," Augusta snarled freshly and started for the house. "You've got the family nerve. You do it."

Vivian threw herself on the bed in the room, her head whirling, feeling ill and trembling. Part of the feeling might have come from the cocktails. But the illness was mostly in her heavy heart that suddenly felt as though a sharp, deadly sword had been plunged through her breast. "Oh, the nerve of her. The nerve!" she cried out to herself. "Why couldn't she have stayed over there? How could she come back here after all this?"

When Celeste came in to call her to the phone she saw the harried look in her eyes. What had he said to her now? she thought bitterly, blaming Kent, as always, for any change in poor madame's manner. Her voice was tender. "Poor madame, she is tired. I give her a heg message before dinner. It is your little fren' Cuddles," she smiled, handing Vivian the telephone. "She cheer madame up."

Cuddles was agog with news. "My dear! Bologny Blondie came home today—WITHOUT her no-count! Something is up—let me tell you. I'm coming over after dinner if you're not busy. I'm consumed with feminine wonder and curiosity!" "Yes, I saw her," Vivian said wearily. "She didn't see us though, I guess."

It would be nice to have Cuddles come over and eat with her in her room, Vivian thought, as she hung up—and called her back. Vivian didn't care much what Celeste put on her. But the little maid selected her most charming white flowing negligee and laid it out.

"No, madame, please have a shower—and then I will give you a wonderful massage. She feel hosty, tosty!" "Funny little Celeste! Always trying to make wise cracks and getting them all mixed up. Vivian smiled shakily and obeyed like a little child. Her head felt queer when she started up. Celeste suddenly caught a whiff of the cocktails. She went to the medicine cabinet and mixed a bromo seltzer for Vivian. "Or her shower."

"She was so amused! Ah, madame had been drinking with the hand-some illustrater. That was why she was pensive. "What is that for?"—Vivian pushed the sizzling drink away, but Celeste pressed it on her. "It ees fine for madame. She will not have headaches from blues, please!"

"Darned, you ole lucky thing! You make me feel like going out and robbing a bank." "I wish to heaven you were in my place, if you envy me." Vivian told her in no uncertain terms, and sank into an air of depression. Cuddles understood. She didn't feel so gay about it herself. Her heart ached for Vivian. Just as Kent seemed to be getting really interested in her—she could notice a difference in his manner—Dovie Jansen had to turn up. "What kills me," Pat mused later, "is that Count Von Popper isn't with her. Maybe the evening paper will have something about it. It ought to be here now."

Vivian called Celeste and sent her to see. Sure enough. There was a picture of Dovie on the front page. She had arrived with her mother on an early morning train. A reported had happened to be at the train and had been informed by the "charming, famous local belle."

"My husband, the count, has big business dealings to take care of and could not possibly come to America now. He plans to follow in a few weeks."

"I don't believe it!" Cuddles exploded when she read the Times Democrat. "Don't think for me! In the minute that a European count is going to come to this little burg. There is a very dark gentleman somewhere in the woodpile. She has an her reason for coming back here."

Vivian sat up suddenly. "Oh, Pat, do you think so? Do you think—" she hesitated, but Pat took up her thought. "Well, I wouldn't be surprised what I think! I think we've got to figure out what she is thinking. But I do really think that she must have heard of the will of Kent's grandfather—and that she never would have come back here after marrying nobility for anything but something very important. She isn't the sort to get homesick for the old homestead."

"It—it's Kent, then," Vivian sank back in the pillows. "And she is after his money. Listen, Pat," her eyes suddenly filled. She hardly knew whether to reveal so much to Pat or not. But she did not doubt her loyalty. "I—I don't expect to be really married to Kent—to ever be his wife in the true sense of the word—"

"You're not—really living with Kent!" She was sorry in a minute. But it had been forced out of her. "No," Vivian's face colored. "That was our agreement. I'm not really his wife. But," her voice suddenly rose, "I'll die before I'll see that brazen little cheat get him or his money!"

Pat had never seen quiet, subdued Vivian in a fighting mood. She was glad and decided to encourage it. "I'll say so, baby," she flared back. "If you let her walk on you or get Kent after the dirty trick she pulled, you are not the girl I think you are. I'll lose my respect for you."

Pat was dying to ask questions about the marriage arrangement. But she knew it would not be good taste. She thought of Mann Barkow coming all the way from New York to see Vivian and a puzzled little frown appeared between her eyes. She hoped Vivian wouldn't get mixed up with him. "I flew to Salina and back with Mann this afternoon," Vivian told her, as though reading her thoughts. "I was so excited I almost forgot to tell you."

"Oh! Why didn't you take me along," Pat exclaimed, disappointedly. "Barkow promised I could fly, too." "He didn't say anything about it—and I couldn't very well," Vivian answered her lamely. And a moment later Pat cautioned her seriously. "You better be careful, big girl. You'll be getting in a scandal with that bird. This isn't New York."

"Fine," Vivian laughed bitterly. "Lovely! I'll have a correspondent for my divorce yet!" (To Be Continued)

CAMP MIAMI OPENS

JULY 8; 2,000 BOY SCOUTS TO ATTEND

Two thousand Boy Scouts of Telemachus Council are anxiously awaiting the formal opening of the six-week period during which Camp Miami will be maintained this summer. The camp will open July 8 and will close August 19. Letters and bulletins describing camp life as it will be enjoyed at Camp Miami on the Bryan state farm near Yellow Springs this year have been mailed out by H. O. Portz, Springfield Scout executive, and an exceptional response is reported.

Arthur V. Miller, this city, is Greene County chairman of camping. A majority of local Scouts plan to attend the first camping period which extends from July 8 to July 22.

The only Greene County Scout who expects to attend the camp all summer is Lester Price, a member of Troop No. 41.

In order to stimulate early registration for a camp period of two or more weeks, free swimming trunks valued at $1, will be furnished the first 100 boys to register for a two-week period on or before June 25.

Executive Portz will personally direct the work of the camp, and will be on the job during the entire six weeks of the camping period. It is also arranged to have more Scoutmasters, assistant Scoutmasters and troop committeemen at Camp Miami than in past years in order to have the Scouts camping there under the familiar leadership of their own troop leaders.

The camp period is divided into three periods of two weeks each. They are July 8-22; July 22-August 5, and August 5-19.

THE FLAT TIRE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY, AUTHOR OF "MAKE UP" ETC.

© 1929 CENTRAL PUBLISHING INC.

READ THIS FIRST: Vivian Matthews, shy and unhappy because she was a doer, baby, is considered a "flat tire" by the younger set of Bender, Kan. Kentworth Hillman Johns III offers her one hundred thousand dollars, and a divorce in Paris at the end of the year if she will marry him so he can get the fortune.

Will by his grandfather, in New York, transformed with clothes which her French maid selects, she attracts the attention of Mann Barkow, the famous illustrator, and goes to dinner with him. He flies to Bender to paint her portrait, and Patricia Sullivan, "Cuddles Namara" on Broadway, home for the summer, consents to say that he has flown to see her.

She flies to Salina with Mann Barkow, and is thrilled with the experience. In his studio later she drinks her first cocktail. At home a stunning sight awaits her. (Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XIV
Dovie was aware that Kent and Vivian were standing in the driveway. But she purposely pretended not to see them. It would have been embarrassing. Some other way would have to be figured out.

She was also aware that Vivian had run into the house. And that Kent stood there for almost a minute staring at her. She picked flowers nonchalantly, her scarlet dress a flame against the tall autumn flowers, realizing that she made a pretty picture.

A moment later her mother, who had been looking from the dining room window, joined her in the garden.

"Quite dramatic, my dear! Why didn't you just yell 'yoo! hoo!' and surprise that little red-headed impostor out of her shoes?"

"Don't be dumb, mother," Aurelia shrugged freshly and started for the house. "You've got the family nerve. You do it."

Vivian threw herself on the bed in the room, her head whirling, feeling ill and trembling. Part of the feeling might have come from the cocktails. But the illness was mostly in her heavy heart that suddenly seemed as though a sharp, deadly sword had been plunged through her breast.

"Oh, the nerve of her, the nerve!" she cried out to herself. "Why couldn't she have stayed over there? How could she have come back here after all this?"

When Celeste came in to call her to the phone she saw the hurried look in her eyes. What had he said to her now? she thought bitterly, blaming Kent, as always, for any change in poor madame's manner. Her voice was tender.

"Poor madame, she is tired. I give her a boog massage before dinner. It is your little fren' Cuddles," she smiled, handing Vivian the telephone. "She cheer madame up."

Cuddles was agog with news. "My dear! Bologny Rionde came home today—WITHOUT her no-count! Something is up—let me tell you. I'm coming over after dinner if you're not busy. I'm consumed with feminine wonder and curiosity!"

"Yes, I saw her," Vivian said wearily. "She didn't see us though, I guess."

It would be nice to have Cuddles come over and eat with her in her room, Vivian thought, as she hung up—and called her back.

Vivian didn't care much what Celeste put on her. But the little maid selected her most charming white flowing negligee and laid it out.

"No, madame, please have a shower—and then I will give you a wonderful massage. She felt hoisty, toasty!"

Funny little Celeste! Always trying to make wise cracks and getting them all mixed up. Vivian smiled shakily and obeyed like a little child. Her head felt queer when she started up. Celeste suddenly caught a whiff of the cocktails. She went to the medicine cabinet and mixed a home seltzer for Vivian for her shower.

She was so amused! Ah, madame had been drinking with the handsome illustrator. That was why she was pensive.

"What is that for?"—Vivian pushed the sizzling drink away, but Celeste pressed it on her.

"It's tea for madame. She will not have headaches from blues, please!"

Vivian drained it, not suspecting its usefulness, and was lost in a sleepy, delightfully rested feeling when Cuddles rushed in a few minutes later. Celeste had massaged her until she tingled and she lay on her pale green silk draperies in her stunning white negligee looking very much like a pretty picture. Cuddles started at her and slighed enviously. "Darned, you ole lucky thing! You make me feel like going out and robbing a bank."

"I wish to heaven you were in my place, if you envy me," Vivian told her in no uncertain terms, and sank into an air of depression.

Cuddles understood. She didn't feel so gay about it herself. Her heart ached for Vivian. Just as Kent seemed to be getting really interested in her—she could notice a difference in his manner—Dovie Jansen had to turn up.

"What kills me," Pat mused later, "is that Count Von Popper isn't with her. Maybe the evening paper will have something about it. It ought to be here now."

Vivian called Celeste and sent her to see.

Sure enough. There was a picture of Dovie on the front page. She had arrived with her mother on an early morning train. A reported had happened to be at the train and had been informed by the "charming, famous local belle."

The Theater

Well, ladies and gents, the class in dramaturgy will please come to order while we discuss this and that, and dem, and dose, and ponder upon the decline of the stage and the rise of the talkies.

Under the head of this and that, we will discuss the amazing fact that both houses of the Pennsylvania legislature have passed a bill repealing the censorship of news reels and we shall show a picture of Governor John S. Fisher and quite him extensively.

pictures before they can be shown. No state has passed such a law since 1922 when Massachusetts, the only state which has settled the question by popular vote, repealed the censorship by a vote of more than two to one.

"There is implied in the old law", says Governor Fisher, "the view that those in charge of the industry will not properly censor themselves in displaying exhibits. I have seen a great improvement in the moral tone of the movie industry. In those early stages we can all remember when there were exhibitions that were obscene and immoral. As the industry has developed and fallen into the hands of more responsible people it has corrected itself and today it stands, in my opinion, on as high a plane as the great newspapers of the country and I think may be safely entrusted to censor its own news".

And Carl E. Milliken, former governor of Maine and now secretary of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, says: "The screen steadily improved and censorship is no help to us or to the public in the effort for better films."

And while we are on the subject of censorship, let it be recalled that the Ohio censor board has recently refused to okay "The Birth of a Nation" again, a film which has been on the ban list for years. Something about the possibility of encouraging racial prejudice is mumbled by the censorship board.

And under the head of nobody's business, the New Yorker reports that the destruction of the old Thalia Theater in the Bowery by fire last week, was not such a mystery as it seemed. The New Yorker says it was a case of suicide, the Thalia destroying itself because it had heard rumors that it was to be the center of a revival of early theatrical Americana such as Christopher Morley and his merry men are bringing about in Hoboken. The Thalia had fallen far from Grace but declined to go farther. Recently it was used for Oriental plays where a chair on top of a table represented a mountain or what have you.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I always use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before and after childbirth. I am a mother of three children—two little girls and a baby boy. I would get run-down, nervous, dizzy and weak sometimes so I had to lie in bed. I would take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic and I always saw an improvement after taking the first bottle. HOW MUCH FEED FOR PIGS ON PASTURE?

How much to feed pigs on pasture for most profit, will depend on whether they are to be finished early on pasture before the price has declined, according to W. L. Robison, assistant in animal industry at Ohio Experiment Station.

"By restricting the grain or concentrate allowance somewhat, pigs can be made to utilize a larger amount of forage and will thus require fewer pounds of concentrates per unit of gain. They gain more slowly, however, and are not likely to be ready for market until after the price has declined in the fall, nor until after the close of the grazing period. If finished without forage a larger amount of feed will be needed to produce a pound of gain.

"Full fed pigs may be finished on pasture. Experiments have shown that full fed pigs carried to a given market weight, have often required no more concentrates per unit of grain than others which were given a limited allowance of grain during the summer.

"Full feeding is ordinarily advisable in the case of pigs that have been fattened early enough to be fitted for market before the price declines. Although they must be fed largely on old corn, or more costly feeds, the higher price received will more than cover the greater cost. The more rapid growth of the full fed pigs reduces the labor, interest and overhead expense, and the risk from disease or other causes. Since late pigs cannot be prepared for an early market, even by forced feeding, they should be given a limited grain allowance during the grazing season and finished largely on new corn.

"Limiting the concentrate allowance of pigs fattened during the fore part of March to 2.5 to 3 pounds daily per 100 pounds of live weight for a period of eight to ten weeks after weaning and full feeding from that time on.
